ACADEMIC OPPORTUNITIES

UNDERGRADUATE RESEARCH
Kennesaw State University is a student-centered, research-driven R2 institution. The Office of Undergraduate Research provides opportunities for undergraduate students to engage in mentored research and scholarship in all disciplines across campus.

Students not only can pursue research and scholarship individually, but they can also engage in team-based research projects through the Undergraduate Research Club, a registered student organization at KSU. The First-Year Scholars Program, launched in Fall 2019, is another opportunity in which first-year students interested in research are paired with faculty mentors who guide them on research in their respective fields.

Resources such as workshops, class presentations and research funding are also available for both students and faculty. Undergraduates may present their work at academic conferences such as KSU’s Symposium of Student Scholars or the National Conference on Undergraduate Research (NCUR), the largest interdisciplinary event of its kind in the country, held at KSU in Spring 2019.

Students can complete their research journey by publishing their projects in the Kennesaw Journal of Undergraduate Research, an online peer-reviewed scholarly journal.

KSU Journey Honors College offers a community within the university to academically talented and highly motivated students who enjoy lively discussion, creative expression and intellectual challenge. Through its unique and flexible curriculum, KSU Journey Honors College focuses on helping students achieve their goals and aspirations without adding time or cost to their degrees.

In addition to benefits such as special scholarship opportunities and priority registration, KSU Journey Honors College also provides opportunities for undergraduate research, domestic and international travel experiences, and community service activities. KSU Journey Honors College houses the University Honors Program, including the President’s Emerging Global Scholars cohort and the Great Books cohort, available to entering first-year students.

College of Science and Mathematics Advanced Majors Program (AMP) offers academically talented students the opportunity for intellectual adventure beyond the average college experience. First-year students take part in special activities and innovative science and math courses, ensuring you get the best educational experience possible here at Kennesaw State University.

The Thrive Program creates a community of engaged first-year students, who throughout their four years are focused on maintaining the HOPE scholarship while staying on track to graduate.

Education Abroad at Kennesaw State University offers more than 50 faculty-led education abroad programs in over 40 countries, as well as many foreign exchange and international internship opportunities. Regardless of what field of study or country you are passionate about, there is an education abroad program for you!
